But these days the houses are all gone and all that's left is a village of various trees.

Wow! I remember this! This is... from before it got rebuilt, the tunnel from when I was little!
It was so narrow that a single car could barely fit past with a tremendous echo...!
My mother would hold my hand and would quickly cross this unreinforced tunnel

In the pitch black tunnel, we have to squeeze into a recess to avoid the car.
To my tiny self, the very shape itself of this surprisingly narrow and long tunnel was scary.
